War did exist, and it made no difference whether the United States tioned and assumed by it. War did exist, and it made no difference whether the United States Government admitted it or not. The rights of beligherents must be accorded them. The charge was only applicable to a state of war. Was this man only executing the orders of his Government? If so, having conferred upon him the power, it would take away the right to punish him nuder the civil law. If robbing for his own personal benefit, his commission would not shield him, but, as a soldler of the Confederate States Government, he had a soldler's right to explure the steamer, and appropriate her and any moneya belonging to her to the cause of his Governmen, but he had up right to step aside end commit grand larcery—an unpocessary act to make the capture might be construed grand larceny. GENTLEMEN: Having all my life beeu an nnwaveing Denocrat, I propose to submit a few

especially to that portion of the Democracy that stood by the true organization in 1830, and supported the librarious Douglas, on the ambject of invitation, and again remind you that when we were a great and glorious party controlling this great nation, you deliberately and with milice afor longh betraved us and bound as hand and foot, and delivered us over to the political enemy to be punished. And when we were supporting the immortal Douglas in 1860, you charged us with dearnion, and asid we had joined the aboiltionists. We repelled the charge as untrue. The same charge is now made against us became we favor the amendment. It is also untrue. It is perfectly manifest that the slave ocracy has been the most effective enemy Democracy has ever had, and has more effectively crushed the party than any other power

It is claimed that consistency requires the supporters of McClellan to oppose the amendment. I deny that such is the fact. There is no word nor line in the Chicago Pistform that is disregarded by voting for the amendment, and I well remember that a gentiems of questionable position offered certain resolutions sasceptible of being construed as against such an amendment as is now proposed. The convention very promptly rejected the resolutions. Now, what is to be the result of the success of this re-called conservative party, if such a calamity should befail m? Two thiags only will be accomplished; one is the State must maintain a hostile attitude toward the General Government or back down from the position taken by the leaders; the other result is the placing of the political power and place in the State in the hands of the secessionists and of the mea who have all the time been hostile to the Government and desired the success of the rebellion. And why this result? Simply because these men are in the majority is this anti-amendment party, and are admitted to equal rights, and will in the fature control the nominations to be made by that party, and according to political usage have a right to do so. Now, where such Mr. Ritter to Congress from a representative that can have some influence with the General Government, and exert a controlling influence in the a justiment of the many and intreate questions in volving the dearest intrests of the people of this district, without distinction of varty. We were willing to endare what we never would have introduced. Now the war, forced upon us by these very rebels, has removed all these objections, and consistency and truth and candor demand that we shall acquiesce willingly, cheerfully. Away with all old prejadices about a defunct institution: they do not become the character of a bold, true soldier; let us have the courage to come squarely up to the Isane, and say: "It is done; God'a hand has shaped the result; slavery is dead; let its death be eternal."

The great fears expressed by some about the second clause of the amendment are unfounded—niere demagogenery. Let any honest soldier read the clause for himself, and say if there is any more reason to say it means what the opposition say it means than that Congress is thereby empowered to legislate Mormonism into all the States, or any other nethought-of idea. No; away with all causeless fear; face the truth, admit it and act on it like men and soldiers. Vote the amendment, and quiet this distribute question forever.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 24, 1865

A careful investigation into the facts connected with a complaint recently made to these headquarters by William Andrews, Mayor of the city of Columbia, Teunessee, and Justice of the Peace, in behalf of the Board of Mayor and Aldermen of the city of Columbia and the Court of Maury conaty, in which the military authorities of the United States are accused of unwarrantable and unjustifiable interference with the civil authorities, has developed the following:

with the evil attributes, has developed the following:

On or about the 21th day of June, two colored girls, pupils in the colored school in Columbia, were arrested upon the charge of trespass and assant and battery, and in default of hall if the earn of five kundred dollars each were committed to the county jail and locked app in cells in solitary confinement to await trial before the Circuit Court of Manry county, which, it is understood, is not to sit for several months.

which however, did not take effect npon the attacking party.

The ball exacted was exorbitant and lilegal, as only two hundred and fifty dollars contil by law have here exacted, and the Justice of the Peace who committed the girls to jail, afterwards, upon being advised by the Attorney-General that his action was wholly without warrant of law, released one of the girls unconditionally, and reduced the ball of the other to two hundred and fifty dollars.

From the investigation, the aforesaid Justice, F. H. Welch, interly failed to justify his own action in the premises, but alleged that he had acted upon the advice of Mayor Andrews. acted upon the advice of Mayor Andrews.
It farther appears that there has been a sys ished there, and this to the disgust and diseat rebel, and who at that time was a prisoner at the North, and that said property was leased to Felix G. Young, a Union man, at a monthly rent of twenty-five dollars per month, which reut was duly paid monthly, in advance, for the months of April, May, and June.

On or about the first day of June, the Treasury Agent was called upon by Mr. Galloway, who had returned, to release his property to him. He was informed of the condition under which it was held and if he wished the proper.

the above is not a fair synopsis of the general tone of the British press on American matters during the first three years of the American war. If ever the British press tried hard to do anothing it was in this. The fightre became apparent many months ago, and English editors were not slow in endeavoring to correct the error they had made. Sherman's march and the fate of Savannah seem to have been the turning point that convinced them of their errors, and they began to think it was safest to be patter Federal Generals with a little praise. So the "frantic enthusiast" became a "cousummate tactician" when he took Savannah, and, when Richmond had falien and Lee surrendered, Grant, whom they stried the "blind butcher," became almost a divinity, and nothing mere was said about democracy being a failure or the Republic a bubble.

But the assassination of the President waths reastest God-send to the British press. It bapeared plus at the right time, and helped to get England out of an ugly dilemma. The North was flushed with victory, and there might be war. So, addresses of condolence were forthwith got up, meetings to express indignation at the foul deed were held in every city, and journalists who had unbinshingly held up Mr. Lincoln as something between a mountebask and the king of Dahomey, sandenly and as mubhalingly painted him a Washington. The catastrophe, we repeat, was most opportune for England, for it gave the press a chance of restricting a good deal of what it had said, without appearing so monstronsly inconsistent as it should had the pistol of the assassin not helped to not of its difficulty.

We tell the people of the South, who have fourth a prevailed and devotes his time and accounted to his anthority representation at the fourth of the press a chance of restricting a good deal of what it had said, without appearing so monstronsly inconsistent as it should had the pistol of the assassin not helped to get the same inwer who conducted the proceention of the glistor treepass and assall and devotes his t

Welch the Justice, though a rebel in sympathy, is a man of firited information and of but little influence, and if left to himself would probably do little harm, but is an official and willing instrument in the hands of a number of bad men in Columbia, among whom are Andrews, Galloway, and Frierson. Galloway bears the reputation of a man destitute of principle, truth, honor, and loysity. He was formerly a

Galloway is the active man, Andrews and Frierson the conusellors, and Welch the instrument. This is the coalition which has set itself up in defiance of the anthority of the United States and has threatened its officers. These are the officials who, in the garb of officers of the law and administrators of justice, have degraded themselves to the position of persecators of school girls, and the whippers of school teachers.

degraded themselves to the position of persecators of school girls, and the whippers of school teachers.

The malignant rebellions spirit which they have diplayed by their persecution of the weak and helpless, and on account of their ignorance of or wilful violation of law, they have shown themselves to be persons dangerons to the peace of the community, and unworthy to longer so grossly misrepresent law and justice.

It is, therefore ordered that Wm A Andrews, Mayor of the city of Columbia and Jastice of the Peace, and F. H. Welch, Justice of the Peace, and F. H. Welch, Justice of the Peace, he suspended from the exercise of their functions as civil officers until further orders, which will be issued when they have given proof that they possess some little humanity, and show a willingness to conform to the laws of the United States and of the State in which they live.

M. S. Frierson and William Gailoway will be arrested sent to this place, and turned over to the Provost Marshal-General of this Military Division for confinement in the military prison for such firsther disposition as should be made in the cases of rebels who still maintain an attitude of definice to the United States, and caunot appreciate the kinduess of the Government in relieving them from the prison to which their former crimes consigned them.

The New Orleans True Delta says:

In Mississippi Governor Sharkev reappointed all the old county officers, on the simple condition of their taking the oath of amuesty prescribed by the President's proclamation of May 29,1865. A few mouths ago, all of these officers were supporters of the so-called Confederate Government. His first official act, after arriving in Mississippi from Washington, where he had a full and explicit conference with President Johnson, was to appoint Mr. Shanson, formerly proprietor of the Vicksburg Waig, to the sherifalty of Warren county. Yet the Whig supported the Richmond Government ap to the time of the capture of Vicksburg by General Grant. Still no compilatat against Governor Sharkev comes from the press, people, or anthorities of Mississippi, and we have the best of reasons for believing that his policy is approved at Washington.

It remained for America to fully demonst ate the old Latin maxim, por populi, rar dei as well as viadicate the truth of that other equally beautiful, prophetic maxim of the ancients. "Truth crushed to earth will rise again." the eternal years of God are hers. Among the men who eccupy an envisible position to the eves of the world, and the hearts of the people, is Major-Gengral Roussean, of Kentneky. So rapidly has General R. arisen from the position of a private citizon, to that of military hero of national renows, that a natural and very landshie curiosity is excited as to his former history, and this is anymented not a little by the fact that he is the leading advocate of emancipation in Kentneky, and the Lunion candidate for Concress in the Louisville district.

General L. If Roussean is a native of Kentneky, is about 47 years of age, was born of humble but highly respectable parents, and edacated to the trade of brick masou. His early literary advantages were very poor, he never having attended school more than three months in his life. His mind was of a very superior order, however, and his habits of life observant and studions; hence, at the age of 21 he was by no means a verdant youth or illiterate vonny man. He was amiltion, and his amplition was to be gratified alone by intellectnat trium; has, and his trade not allowing him sufficient time or opportunity for study, he resolved to become a lawyer. Blackstone now became his constant companion when other daties won il admit of study, nutil the principles of remained for America to fully demonst at

He now resolved to leave Louisite and rettle in some small county seat in the decision of the control of practice. He now resolved to leave Louisville and settle in some small county seat in the Hoosler State. In accordance with this plan he set out for Washiagton, Daviess coanty, in this State, arriving there on Sunday and on foot. Whether he had walked the entire distance from Louisville, or staged it a portion of the way we do not know, nor is it material to our purpose. His visit to this place was with a view of undergoing an examination and getting a license to practice law from the Hou. Divid McDanald, now of this city, then Judge of that circuit and a resident of Washington. The old Judge saw there was considerable in the young man, and very kindly advised him as to a location, directing bim to go to Bloomfield, the seat of justice for Greens county. This village, therefore, became the field of his first intellectual triumphs. He mat with great encouragement there, and soon found himself in a lucrative practice. Col. Cavins, the Clerk of the Circuit Court, at once gave him the advantage of his very great influence, introducing him as a friend of his, which was sufficient to establish him in the confidence of the people of Greene county, who regarded Col. 8 R Cavins as the numpire in all matters of law. We were but a boy then, but our recollections of Gen. Ronseeau are very vivid, as well as pleasant, as his family and our father's often exchanged visits, and he, and his excellent wife (whom we shall ever remember gratefully), often supplied us with books which fed the flames of our burning thirst for knowledge. (The reader will please pardon this personni reference; we could not, in justice to our feelings, omit it.) gs, omit it.)
Nothing of any great interest occurred in the

nothing of any great interest occurred in the life of our young lawyer, until the Max'can war broke out, and a call was made for volanteers to march to the Rio Grande. The military spirit of the fu'ure General now shone forth; a company was raised mainly through his efforts, and he was chosen Captain. On his roturn frem the field, Rossean was elected to a seat in the State Senate. (He had previously, if we recollect right, served in the lower Hore?) He was now a rising man, and having grown confident of his own powers, he resolved to return to his old home at Louisville, and in 1818 or 1849, this purpose was carried out. From this time until about the time the rebellion began, but little was heard of Roussean by his friends in this State, save that he was very successful in his profession. During the winter of 1860 and '61, he was a member of the Kentucky Senate, and signalized himself by a firm, neverving devotion to the Union, producing one of the most effective speeches we remember to have read during those stormy days. He saw clearly at that early day, the true issues involved, and his lovality was in consonance with the principles he had ever cheris hed.

With the subsequent history of this truly great man, all are tamillar, save that few know or have any definite idea of the difficulties, dangers, and disconragements under which he gers, and disconragements under which he raised the first Union regiment in Kentucky, or the vast influence he has had upon that State in bringing her to realize the trne relation she anstains to the Government. SHERMAN'S SPEECH AT INDIANAPOLIS

FELLOW-SOLDIERS AND FELLOW-CITIZENS: I have come to Indianapolis to-day more for the pleasure afforded me in seeing my old comrades than to enunciate any words of wisdom to the vast throng present ou this occasion, to whom it would be impossible for me to make myself heard. You, my comrades, are accustomed to my gestures, and will understand me. You are to go home, and will recount at your peaceful fresides the tales of the war in which yon were engaged. This war is over, and we have passed the crisis of our nation's history. We have passed that great crisis which has affected all bunmanity. Other nations have had their civil wars, and now we have had ours, out of which we have come preserved. It is the destluy of man to move forward. "Westward the star of empire takes it way." When a nation overcomes external danger, it was but little in comparison to overcoming that luternal danger that for a time threatened its existence. We have passed through the three great steps of the national ordeal, and have come out stronger than ever. The thought that speedily the time would come when all would stand together on a broad, common, and free ground was a snificient recompense for the sacrifices that had been made. We of the military branch have fought through the great struggle, and I believe that even our enemies will turn to the Northern solders and thank them for preserving the national unity.

The General spoke in high praise of Governor

even our ememies will turn to the Northern soidiers and thank them for preserving the national unity.

The General spoke in high praise of Governor Mortou's services, who had never stopped to count quotas, but would have given every man, woman, and child, if it had have been necessary for the Union. He paid a high tribate to the valor and good conduct of Indiana soldiers, and to the State for her efforts in behalf of the Union canse. Governor Morton had run over his career, which was also the career of the men under his command. You were sometimes ahead of me, as I was is the safest place in the rear. He claimed nothing for himself except to direct the men in the manner he thought best calculated to destroy our enemies. The men had done the execution. But all this would not have sunanted to much had not our riend Grant held the enemy in his grip, while Sherman's army did the hitting.

Now we may return to the walks of civil life, and he claimed for each one of his soldiers that he was a more intelligent man than he was when he went into the army. He had learned iessons not to be found in books. Hereafter you will see that the laws are everywhere obeved. We must have no more rebeilion in this land, and your task will be to see that the laws are obeyed by all, even if some do not approve them and if they do not you make them. He hoped that not another life will be shed by the havonet for two hundred years, and, in that time, being a little crowded, we might need a war to get rid of some of the surplus population. He did not believe in adding the coid and sterlie territory on our North, or the arid or suproductive on the Southwest. We were large enough, and he would not give ten cents an acre for each land.

The Herald's Washington special has the following: The affairs of freedmen in Arkansas are represented as in a most prosperous condition. In a report received to-day at the Freedmen's Bursan, from Col. Wm. Str.og, now making a tour of examination in that portion of the South for the purpose of observing the working of the system now being tested by the Bursen, he says that in the Lutile Rock Dustriet als me there are 3.980 freedmen who are now employed, in pursuance of orders from the Secretary of War, at the following rates of wages: First class under laborers receive from the Secretary of War, at the following rates of wages: First class women laborers receive from the secretary of the system of the secretary of the secretary two mouths, and the balance is ordered to be retained for them to the end of the vear.

Of the above number of laborers npwards of 2,000 are employed by some 43 lessees of plantations. The latter profess to be entirely satisfied with the labor they receive from the freedmen, and have but litt'e trouble with their employes. They calm, however, that the established rate of wages is too high, and that they have to pay one-third more than is charged at any point in the Masiasippi Valley.

They estimate that their cotton will coet them from 20c to 25c per pound when baled and ready for market. Colonel Strong remarks in this counceilon that if planters are not at fault in these calculations no money will be made NEW YORK, July 27.

PRO-SLAVERY. ANY IL NEGRO AGITATION
IN THE SOUTH.

[From the Borton Courier.]
The Louisville Journal thus addresses words of warning to a cless of madmen whom all the horrora of war seem not yet to have restored to sailly. It says:

"There are restless spirits in the South who do not lures do vield to the anthorities of the United States, or to submit becomingly to the decision of the sword to whose arbitrament they appealed. We may as well be plain in this matter. There has got to be some plain steaking, and probably some more very plain acting, before these men will learn their duties as clizzens of the United States. If they hate this Government so hadly that they are un willing to live under it, let them leave it and seek for freedom under the mild and paternal Governments of Napoleon or Maximilian, or of the Emperor of Brazil, or of the Shitan of Turkey, or the Shah of Perela, or under any other to which their tastes and moral affinities may lead them; but if they are loyal clizens, desirons of promoting the peace and unity of this control, then we are it is their date. and they Jeff Davis's commission as a 1st Lieutemant of Dragoons, signed Andrew Jackson. Free-deat, and Lewis Case, Secretary of War, and dated Aryll 19, 1834 to rank from March 4, 1834 has falled into the hands of a member of Gov. Oglesby's staff. An old gentleman, with a profusion of allvery locks, a few days since paraded Broadway, New York, with his "back hair" done up as a "water fall" in a sik net, which protunded from beneath his hat, to the bewilderment of the laas of promoting the peace and naity of nairy—then we say it is their dar, and i ill te compelled, if necessary, to submit to ill of the majority and acquiesce in the LEAVITT tled and Irreversible policy apon which the people of the United States have settled. They caunot remain here as revolutionits diclovalists, traitors, ready at any moment to plunge the country into civil war the moment any serious difficulty may arise with a tereign government. We care nothing for the professions of these men. Professions are tasily made. We know what they profession are tasily made. We know what they profession in 1800 and previously, and we know how they belied all the professions they then made. We can to believe their profess on now; and intend to look to their acts as the only crites by which to judge of their motives and their intentions. Looking to these it is quite clear that they intend, if possible, to revive the slavery issue They don't mean to accept, the free basis which they themselves through war have established. They intend to make a combined and desperate effort to revolutionize the Government and to re-establish slavery. We see almost every day the old distuncionists returning to their homes and posts in the South, and witness their revival of the old sleag phrases of secession to excite the prejudices and arouse the passions of the ignorant; we see them calling into requisition the old tactes by which they "ired the Southern heart' and brought revolution, anarchy, and depotism upon the Southern States against the wishes of the Southern people."

THE FAMILY MACHINE on the Southern States against the wishes of the Southern people."

These forcible words of the veteran and sagaclan editor of the Journal should sink deep into the minds of the faction—we sincerely believe it is nothing more—to which they are addressed. More than four years ago we, in these columns, held up before the Southern people whose eyes we were unable to reach, the consequences of secession. And now again, as a sacred duty, we arge upon the same people, scourged by four years of war, the consequences of a factious attempt to evade the legitlmate results of the overwhelming defeat which has come upon them. It is hard to add anything to the words we have queted. But we have earned much hatred and suffered much loes in this center of Northern fanaticism, by defending the constitutional rights of States and citizens, Northend South. We have been called by many hard names, have been compelled to bear the impanance of conseals, with what our soul ab-

Against the demands of a portion of the party which placed him in office he has patriotically resolved to discharge his whole duty by reorganizing the States of the South at once, and restoring to them all their old rights without delay. No power in the North is now strong enough to prevent the accomplishment of this noble act, which seems about to give again to all of us a country, presperous, happy, and free. The faratics may strain every nerve to change the determination of the President, but they are powerless unless re-enforced by ald from among the very people whom he is now trying to benefit and protect. Tuless a faction in the South shall, by its words of denunciation and its acts of opposition, enable the radical leaders to "fire the Northern heart," nothing, we say, can prevent the speedy restoration to the people and States of the North and West. This is the plain and simple fact, and we wish we could put it in full force before the eyes of every man in the South who are called upon to take a part in reconstruction shuu the connsels of the men who would lead them to attempt the reconstruction, in any form, of the "peculiar insetlintion" among them. A Richmond paper invites emigration i to keep the true issues in this miserable effort the Old Dominion from the hardy population to prolong the slavery agitation from the minds of the North. Among the inducements offered of the people of this State—an effort that is are these: "A genial country, a hospitable most injurious to every interest of Kentucky of people, easy employment, indulgent task-mas whatsoever nature, present and prospective. The Cincinnati Gazette rejoices that Presdent Johnson is "not advancing in the direcion of the copperhead camp." But, if there's such a camp, why doesn't he advance in the direction of it? Why not "advance immediately upon its worke?"

The second section, as we have said, merely leclares that when the Constitution provides for emancipation, Congress may execute the provision by the proper legislation, and how so nteilectual and respectable a man as Mr. Bell can have brought himself to think, or have got his own consent to say, that such a section au thorizes the enforcement, by Congress, of negro equality, we are puzzled to understand We might look for assertions of that sort from anscrupulous factionists, raging seekers after gognes, but from Joshus F. Bell we had expected something better, something more skin statesmanship. The assertion that the power to carry out a constitutional provision for the emancipation of slaves involves a power to con fer on them the right of suffrage and elevate them to a political equality with the whites in so absurd, so preposterous, so foolish, so agains all common sense, that it surprises and shocks and disgusts us, when coming from a gentle man we have loved to honor. When the slave so-called, shall be declared free under the amended Constitution, they will have just as much and just as little right of suffrage as the present free negroes-neither more nor less. Mr. Bell, speaking of the adoption of the Well, Mr. Bell, when that "Issue" comes, if ever does come, "met it at the threshold." But there's no such "issue" now, and no "threshold" to meet such an issue at. To mancipate the so-called slaves, to huddle the putrid remains of slavery out of sight, is not to 'divide the lands of the Southern States among the regroes as a reward for their services;" it i not even the "threshold" or door step or gateway to such a proceeding. Congress would not have a whit more power, if the amendment were a part of the Constitution, to divide the athern lands among the negroes than it has to divide them among the negroes now, or than it will have if the amendment shall not be incorporated into the Constitution at all. There position understood would place him wrong is no relation whatever, no connection in even emancipation and the partition of Southern iands among the negroes, or negro suffrage.

If Kentucky resisted the all the districts are daily addressing the people. unconstitutional, must she, for consistency's ake, resist the unquestionably constitutional? f she held on to a living thing, shall she, to be consistent, hug the loathsome carrion?

We rejoice in the conviction that every reon, guilty of playing the guerrilla now, will, captured and convicted, be hung without iercy. Surely mercy is not for such. THE WEATHER AND THE MAILS -- The Weather has been unsatisfactory during the last few days. The rain has only given way to allow intervals of most opprossive and intense heat. Heavy rains have been general. We learned at a late hour last night that the track of the Jeffersonville and Indianapolis road was flooded near the town of Franklin, and that it was rainng very heavily at that place at the time. The great Eastern mall partially failed on Wednesday night, only Boston, Philadelphia, and Bal-timore papers having been received as late as Those from New York failed entirely, which indicates some interruption in the inte rior of New York, nearer the city than where the mails from north and south of that point make a junction. The telegraph will contain ars Last evening the five o'clock mail falled entirely, being probably detained by the Furners' Hall between Martin Bijur and J. H. Price, opposing candidates for the Legislature in the Second District of the city. A very good crowd was present, and the speakers were atned to. One of the strong points made by Mr. Bijur in his able speech was in reonse to Mr. Price's assertion that the rejection of the amendment by the last Legislature was inal unless Congress should again present the secument. Whereupon Mr. Bijur said that if the Legislature of Kentucky next winter should determine that it could not act upon the measure without its being presented again by Congress, then Congress, constituted as it is, would re-adopt the amendment in twenty-four sours to enable our Legislature to act. Mi Price made a wandering speech, enlogized Charles A. Wickliffe, and endeavored to researce the noncense of the Louisville Democrat therwise we would have pushed that blowing machine into the street yesterday which was placed on a stool on the pavement at the corner of Third and Market. The fellow usually has his apparatus in the street, but yesterday the rain made it unplescantly muddy there. He and his customers choked the passage of that busy thoroughfare almost entire'y and we have no doubt the punish ment received later in the evening by regro grew cut of his endeavor to push through this throng. This blowing arrangement is used for gambling purposes, and as such its proprietor is a law-breaker. He has so much a blow and if a certain point is attained gives the blower money. His customers be frinks on the capacity of their lungs, and perhaps money too. There is another kindred argement, which nightly blocks up the thoroughfares in the busiest part of the town, that leates the force of a blow from the fist. We do not know that the proprietor of this concern allows his customers a chance by large crowds, the feeblest striker of the party paying the drinks, and that while the ontest is in progress it is impossible to poss without jostling his patrons, who are usually

The weather to day has been quite warm, accomp ied with a very heavy thunder and rain-storm of A TRAGEDY—One of those melanchoty of currences which before war made lite so cheap in the eyes of the community would have startled the whole of Nashville throughout all her borders, took place yesterday afternoon toward hight. It appears that Mr. B. H. Payne, one of the grocery firm of Payne, James & Co., pro-cured last winter, through the courts, a divorce of om his wife on account of an illicit connection. ird and last series of the neven-thirty lean remains model, after which the Treasury will have no resource eyoud certificates of Indebtedness for its future or the grocery him of Pajur, values to consider the conred last winter, through the courts, a divorce form his wife on account of an illicit connection between her and Mr. S. Shadrack Allen. While the trial was in progress, Payne declared that if he succeeded in fixing upon Allen the guilt of seducing his wite he would certainly kill him. On yesterday afternoon, between four and five o'clock, as Allen was satting with a party of friends in front of a window of a saloon next to the livery stable of J. B. Parrish, No. 54 South College street, debating the proposition to buy a drove of mules and take toem down Scuth to sell, Pajue advanced to where the party was engaged in courseastion. As he approached the spot where Allan sat he exclaimed in a lond tone, "Mr. Allen!" Jet as the man add-essed looked up. Payne discharged a pletol at almost point olank range, $4. 00,000 from customs, and $30,000,000 from the known as the $600,000,000 loan act, which provide "Any Tressury notes or other obligations bearing i terest, issued under any act of Congress may, at the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, and wit the consent of the holder, he con charged a pletol at almost point clank range, bren, or herein before authorized." the ball hitting the pectoral mescle at the arm-pit, making only a trifling wound. At this the whole party jumped to their feet, and tried to get out of the way. Just then the pissol was again discharge, the shot wounding a man named Cochung. who was standing in the door of the saloon. the hand, and severely but not dangerously in one ihigh. By this time Mr. Allen had suc-ceeded in getting a revolver out of his pocket,
